

Susan Magrino Agency
352 Park Avenue South, 13 FL
New York, NY 10010
212.957.3005
www.smapr.com

CFWF is coming

Already building up the excitement for the November event, the 3rd Annual Caribbean Food and Wine Festival has announced their scheduling for the festival days. "We are truly excited to have this event for all of you," says Nikheel Advani, Co-Chairman of Caribbean Food & Wine Festival and COO & Principal, Grace Bay Resorts.

Thursday, Oct 31 will see the opening dinner and introduce guests to Tiffany Derry, an established chef and T.V. personality, as she demonstrates her cooking talent. Friday, Nov 1 will be the date of the 7th Annual Gourmet Safari where guests will be treated to plates from a variety of top restaurants from the island.

And rounding out the festivities will be a street food fair on Saturday, Nov 2 in the Grace Bay area. Special guests this year include numerous wine makers such as Christopher Silva of St. Francis Winery, Richard Friedman of Moreson Wines, and even Tukwini Mandela, granddaughter of Nelson Mandela, representing House of Mandela Wines, along with others.

The island's own Lil Chefs will also be participating again this year and the event's planners promise more surprise announcements in the coming weeks leading up to the grand event. "A lot of work is going on behind the scenes and this promises to be another unforgettable event," adds Anthony Garland, Co-Chairman of Caribbean Food & Wine Festival and Operations Manager, The Wine Cellar/Discount Liquors Ltd. Be sure to visit <http://www.caribbeanfoodandwinefestivaltc.com> to book your tickets now as they are going quickly!